[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

DATES TO MARCH 17.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—In the Senate the bill to enforce the Fourteenth Amendment to Georgia was reported from the Judiciary Committee, which also reported claims of Joshua Hill and H. V. Miller as Senators from Georgia, recommending that they be on the table until action is taken on the Georgia bill.

A bill was introduced granting lands to a railroad from the Southern boundary of Kansas to the Pacific.

The bill continuing the Educational and Collection Departments of the Freedmen's Bureau until January 11th, 1871, with a large number of other bills, was introduced.

A joint resolution relating to light houses on the coast of Oregon, was passed.

At the expiration of the morning hour the bill to repeal the tenure of office act, was taken up.

Edmunds resumed his argument against repeal.

Thayer offered a substitute declaring the law inoperative, but requiring the President to send to the Senate within ten days after the beginning of such session, all appointments made during the recess, which require confirmation.

Sherman spoke in favor of repeal.

Cole advocated the substitute.

Carpenter argued in favor of keeping the law on the statute book.

At four o'clock the Senate went into executive session and soon after adjourned.

In the House the Indian appropriation bill was made the special order for to-morrow.

A joint resolution supplying omissions in the enrollments of some of the general appropriation bills of last session, was reported. One requires that bonded warehouses shall reimburse the Government for salaries of storekeepers.

Butler said this proposition had been unanimously agreed upon by the Committee of Conference at 3 o'clock A. M. on the 4th of March, but as it took a million and a half from the pockets of the whisky ring, of course it dropped out in the enrollment of bills.

Schenck defended the enrolling clerk from any imputation of his integrity.

Butler called attention to the manuscript of the Conference Committee with the omitted paragraph. He also commented on the fact that opposition to the resolution came from the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee (the gentleman from Kentucky), Beck, who represented one of the largest distillery districts in the United States, and from the Chairman of the Committee on Enrolled Bills, whose duty it was to see the bill properly enrolled.

The discussion was continued at considerable length, the merits of the proposition being argued.

Butler said the question was whether the enrolling clerk, by accident or design, should be allowed to change the law, taking millions from the Treasury, and whether when it comes back to the House for correction the lobby can be brought into requisition to prevent correction.

Some pretty sharp personal remarks were exchanged between Butler and Schenck, in the course of which Butler promised a thorough investigation of Schenck's action at some future time. Finally the discussion was closed.

Holman moved to strike out the paragraphs about bonded warehouses, which was rejected by 49 to 17.

The joint resolution then passed by a vote of 100 to 43.

On motion of Sargent, the Secretary of the Interior was directed to furnish information as to what steps have been taken to separate mineral lands from lands granted to railroad corporations.

Bingham, from the Judiciary Committee, reported a resolution to restore to Blanton Duncan, of Ky., certain lands taken by Government. Without disposing of the resolution the House adjourned.

Washington News.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Several important nominations were agreed upon in the Cabinet, but it is positively asserted that the President will make no further important nominations until the tenure of office act is disposed of by the Senate.

The Tribune's special insists that Sumner prepared a warlike speech on the Alabama treaty question.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The city is still overrun with officeseekers, and the number is increasing by every train. Senators and Representatives are overwhelmed with letters and personal applications.

Efforts are being made to secure the appointment of Eben Bassett, colored, principal in a school in Philadelphia, as Minister to Hayti.

The Joint Commission of the British and American Governments, to settle the Hudson Bay and Puget Sound difficulties, meets at New York to morrow. The united amount of claims of the two companies is $6,000,000.

The President sent several nominations to the Senate to day, but not of an important character.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has reported back Edmunds' bill repealing the act admitting Georgia to representation, and establishing a provisional government therein, without recommendation. The discussion over the bill promises to be very protracted.

The Ways and Means Committee have determined to recommend separate action on the tax bill relative to tobacco and spirits.

The Senate has confirmed Frank Moore as Secretary of Legation at Madrid.

The Fourteenth Amendment.

The first section of the amended bill to the fourteenth amendment in Georgia, from the Judiciary Committee by Trumbull, repeals so much of the act of June 25, 1868, relates to Georgia. The second section declares the military government in Georgia. Section 3 continues the provisional government and declares null and void the election of members of the legislature, and their seats. The persons actually Registered Persons are to vacate the same. If disqualified under the fourteenth to hold a seat in said body makes it the duty of the [illegible] part of the land and [illegible] States in said State a [illegible] the act into full execution. BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

MADRID, March 17.—Prim told the Cortes that the Monarchists were prepared with a candidate for the throne, and would name him shortly.

The Cortes has appointed four permanent commissioners to supervise their business.

It is said the draft of the new Constitution establishes complete civil and religious liberty, but retains Catholicism as the state religion.

There is a serious disturbance in Andalusia, at Feres Montario.

Minister Sagosta has advised the Cortes not to enforce the conscription.

BERLIN, March 17.—A bill has passed the Parliament securing the freedom of speech in all German Diets.

Living Issues.

The California Advocate has the following excellent article

On Monday morning last the beautiful Methodist church of San Jose, with all its contents, was laid in ashes—the work of an incendiary. A class of Chinese, of some one hundred and fifty, had been collected in this church, on the Sabbath, and instructed in the knowledge of our language and religion, and the spirit that has burned the churches and murdered the friends of the freedmen of the South, discovered its malignity and fiendishness in applying the torch to this church. This spirit of revived barbarism set fire, a few nights after the burning of the church, to a wine and brandy distillery in San Jose, and destroyed property to the amount of $100,000. The church and furniture were worth some $20,000. The owner of the distillery had employed a few Mongolians, and so must feel the wrath of those who insist that this is a white man's country.

It is believed that the parties guilty of this vandalism will be discovered and brought to justice. A liberal reward is offered for their apprehension and conviction, and the whole community is interested in their punishment. The feeling of indignation is so deep and intense, and so wide spread withal, that if there should be any lack of vigilance and thoroughness on the part of the officers of law, it is not unlikely that the organization of committees will lead to the summary disposition of the pests that infest the San Jose valley, and some other communities on this coast. "Let justice be done though the heavens fall," and the more it is done, the more they won't fall.

These deeds of rapacious lawlessness bring to the surface the question of caste—color and caste—a question that enters so largely into the politics and religion of to-day. It is decreed by some who prate of their country and against color, that any shade of color indicating that the person has African or Asiatic blood, in however small part, shall be under the ban of social proscription and political enthrallment; and, with some, this disability shall extend into all the conditions of ordinary life, insomuch that he shall not be in the way of, or jostle against the "superior race." We are rapidly approaching the practical recognition of these three conditions:

1. All men are equal before the law. To be law-abiding, law-revering, law-sustaining, as a matter of obligation, belongs to every man, without regard to color, or other condition than manhood. The defence and protection of law belong to every man on the same grounds, and for the same reason.

To malign, or ill treat, or injure a man on account of color, must be a punishable offence in all well regulated commonwealths, and in all properly administered governments. The tolerance of injustice is the condemnation of any government, and persisted in, demands revolution. The spirit of color and caste hate, must be exorcised and doomed by those that are entrusted with the administration of law, or by the love of freedom and the hatred of oppression inspiring intelligent and philanthropic freemen. To this issue we are come.

2. All men are equal before the Lord, and hence, in the Church are entitled to common privileges and a common recognition. Only this distinction can be known: the more intelligent and spiritual are to be the servants of those that are less enlightened and more benighted. We have one Father, one Redeemer, one sanctifier, one [illegible] are destined to one heaven, and the all [illegible] color and caste among a Christian [illegible] crime of deepest hue. We send [illegible] to China, to enlighten and [illegible] open our churches here, this [illegible] tion of those who have [illegible] God, is a crime to [illegible] our churches. [illegible] who endeavor [illegible] a Christ [illegible] people [illegible]

Cuba.

THE CUBAN revolt has been in progress for over three months. It appears to be more formidable, to-day than at any time since it broke out.

Neither the severely repressive measure of Captain-General Lersundi, nor the liberal and conciliatory policy of Captain-General Dulce have enabled the Spanish troops to make headway against it. It is virtually triumphant throughout the Eastern Department and though there have been no serious revolutionary demonstrations in the Western Department, the recent events in Havana have shown the profound sympathy of the native Cuban population with the party of republican independence.

The Spaniards of all parties are determined to retain their splendid colony. To the Home Government Cuba is a source of rich revenues. To the proud and patriotic Spaniard, it is the reminiscence of the days of the Spanish power and glory. To every Spaniard it is a dream of wealth and happiness. If the Spanish authorities had money, we have no doubt they could raise a hundred thousand volunteers in Spain to fight for the possession of the "ever-faithful isle."

They have already sent reinforcements to strengthen the hands of Dulce, and we judge that by this time there must be at least 20,000 Spanish troops in the island. But Dulce says he requires 10,000 more to insure the triumph of Spanish arms against the rebellion; and it is not possible, under the present state of affairs in Spain, for the Home Government to dispatch troops in such figures. Less than a year ago, Queen Isabella offered the Pope 30,000 soldiers to sustain his power, but that was on condition that the French Emperor should guarantee her in the possession of her throne. Had they gone, she would have been left with but a small army of her own, and, as later events have shown, she would have been all the safer on that account.

The Cuban revolutionists have fought with great persistency and courage. It has long been the habit of the Spanish residents to taunt the native Cubans with imbecility, and cowardice, but their conduct has, at all events disproved that accusation, and they have shown that they can confront the best troops of Spain, and contest the field with them, with fair chances for success. Their general behavior too, has, in the main, been defensible. They have burned one or two small towns for military reasons, and have been charged with ravaging districts of country and plantations from motives of revenge. But thus far we have heard of nothing worse than is common on the part of a combatant who labors under great disadvantages of organization and arms, and who is determined to attempt success by all the means known to civilized war.

It is impossible for Americans to desire success for any European country struggling for supremacy on American soil; and it is impossible to desire victory for the Spanish power against those who are fighting for the independence of Cuba. The only thing that has moderated the sentiment of this country in the present contest in the condition of Spain itself. Spain has just, through an admirably managed Liberal revolution, thrown off the old despotism of the Bourbons, and established a free Government, when the Cuban insurrection burst forth. We were just offering her our best wishes for strength and prosperity, when we saw the outbreak of revolt in her richest possession, and saw the attempt to tear from her the gem which she had held and prized for centuries. It is on this account that there has not been an enthusiasm for the Cuban Republicans such as is very sure to exist in this country for any American population contending with any European Government.

But still it cannot be expected that we will desire success for the military power of Spain against the Cuban revolution. Both the Government and the people of this country have maintained a strict neutrality. We have done nothing to strengthen the one side or damage the other. Neither by diplomacy or menace have we taken ground. We presume both parties have purchased arms in this country, though we judge by our Cuban news that far the greater part have been procured by the Spaniards. But of this [illegible] known, and no [illegible]

BY THE AUTHOR OF "JOHN HALIFAX, GENTLEMAN."

I knew a little maid—as sweet
As any seven years' child you'll meet
In mansion grand or village street,
    However charming they may be.
She'll never know of this my verse
When I her simple tale rehearse—
A cottage girl made baby nurse
    Unto another baby.

Till then how constant she at school!
Her tiny hands of work how full!
And never careless, never dull,
    As little scholars may be
Her absence questioned, with cheeks red
And gentle lifting of the head,
"Ma'am, I could not be spared," she said,
    "I had to mind my baby."

Her baby, oft along the lane
She'd carry it with such sweet pain
On Summer holidays—full fain
    To let both work and play be
But, at the school hour told to start,
She'd turn with sad, divided heart,
'Twixt scholar's wish and mother's part,
    "I cannot leave my baby."

One day at school came rumors dire—
"Lizzie has fallen in the fire"
And off in haste I went to inquire,
    With anxious fear o'erflowing
For yester afternoon at prayer
My little Lizzie's face did wear
The look—how comes it, whence or where
    Of children who are—going.

And almost as if bound for flight
To say new prayers in angels' sight,
Poor Lizzie lay—so wan and white,
    So sadly idle seeming
Her active hands now helpless bound,
Her wild eyes wandering vaguely round,
As up she started at each sound,
    Or slept, and moaned in dreaming.

Her mother gave the piteous tale.
"How that child's courage did not fail,
Or else poor baby"—she stopped, pale,
    And shed tears without number;
Then told how at the fireside warm,
Lizzie, with baby on her arm,
Slipped—threw him from her —s from harm,
    Then fell—here in her slumber.

Lizzie shrieked, "Take him!" and uptossed
Her poor burnt hands, and seemed half lost,
Until a smile her features crossed
    As sweet as angels' may be,
"Yes, ma'am,"—she said in feeble tone,
"I'm ill, I know,"—she hushed a moan—
"But"—here her look a queen might own—
    "But, ma'am, I saved my baby!"

Cranberries.

Among the multitude of fruits that minister to our comfort and pleasure the Cranberry is much neglected. It is one of the most useful of the wild fruits, and, with its keen and pleasant acidity, ranks next to the red currant for culinary purposes. For sauces, tarts and pies it is unrivalled, and no housekeeper would think a roast turkey could be served without the inseparable "cranberry sauce." But limited efforts have been made to cultivate it for market; yet in the few instances where horticulturists have given attention to the subject their efforts have met with ample success. The principal supply for the market is obtained from the plant in its wild state. In the States of Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan immense tracts of marsh land exist, upon which little or nothing else is produced. The fruit is extensively gathered by Indians and sold to the local merchants, who ship it in barrels and kegs to Chicago and Milwaukee, from whence it is distributed through the whole country. On the Pacific coast, the principal supply is obtained from the country bordering on Puget Sound, where it is gathered by the Indians and traders in exchange for whisky and blankets. An instance is mentioned as having occurred in 1859, where a trader, having a stock in trade consisting of nine gallons of whiskey, got in exchange therefor a schooner load of cranberries. The [illegible] of the fact, [illegible] of the enterprising, but [illegible] Owing to the good sailing [illegible] of the vessel, they had no chance to escape. [illegible] berries [illegible] range [illegible] bay, amounted [illegible] several thousand [illegible] There is quite a trade [illegible] between San Francisco and Oregon in this fruit. Considerable quantities are also imported from the Atlantic States, which command about ten cents per gallon more than those of Oregon.

Much has been said about the value of our [illegible] of Alaska, which has been also founded upon the timber, fisheries and the fur trade; having overlooked one item which will live to figure conspicuously after the commerce of that country. This is the [illegible] trade of Kodiak. This is the principal island in the Aleutian group. Large parts of the island is covered with the cranberry vine, which produces fruit unsurpassed in size and flavor. The Kodiak fruit readily commands in the market from fifteen to twenty cents per pound more than the Oregon; and it is impossible to suppose that when it becomes better known, the trade will become less extensive. There is no good reason why this fruit so abundant in Oregon, Washington Territory and Alaska, should not be offered in the market for one-half the present price, and then bring a large margin for profit to the dealers. When the natives of Kodiak find that there is a ready sale for the fruit, there is little doubt but they will gather and deliver it at shipping points for a few blankets, thus they offer inducements for traders to enter largely in this traffic. One favorable feature in the cranberry trade is the ease with which they are prepared for shipping. They are put into kegs and barrels into which sufficient water is poured to cover the fruit, when they are headed up, and are then ready for transportation. In this state they will keep for months through hot and cold weather, alike unchanged.—S. F. Herald.

It is now said that the revival of art and industry at Venice, is truly wonderful. The imports in 1867 amounted to $26,000,000, as compared to $23,000,000 in 1863; the exports in 1867 to $20,000,000, as compared to $16,000,000 in 1863. The tonnage of vessels leaving Venice increased by one-third in the same period. Venetian steamers begin to run once more, as the galleys did of old, to all the great powers of Europe; and, though last, not least, there are now 224 district schools, where in 1866 there were only 8; and manufactories of silk, cloth, cotton, paper, and fire-arms are springing up in all the cities of the mainland. The nobility, after eighty years of eclipse and two hundred years of sloth and degradation, are throwing themselves once more into politics, art, industry and commerce, with much of the old energy which built the city and made it famous.

The following is a recipe for making "Indian pudding" in Fort Dodge: "First, catch your Indians—two of them; boil till their heels come to the top; let stand in a cool place for two weeks; then serve with sorghum and vinegar."

HIRAM SMITH'S

Ophthalmic Panacea!

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WONDERFUL EYE HEALER that has yet been discovered.

It CURES the most stubborn and hopeless cases of CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS, GRANULATED LIDS, FILMS, &c., as has been sufficiently demonstrated during the few months in which it has been brought into public notice. The proprietor is so fully convinced of its INFALLIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE OR REFUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eyes no harm, and a trial of it is therefore without injury or expense to the patient if a cure is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN, and even EIGHTEEN YEARS' standing in Harrisburg, Linn county, Oregon, and its vicinity, to which the following persons will bear witness:

E. B. MOORE,	NATHANIEL BELL,
A. L. WALLACE,	G. E. WARD,
Mrs MONTGOMERY,	JOHN M. HOLLOWAY,

And others in that vicinity.

Persons afflicted with the distressing scourge of diseased eyes are advised to give this remedy a fair trial on the NO CURE, NO PAY and NO INJURY plan.

DISCHARGING EMPLOYEES.—The East Side Railroad Company recently discharged a number of its employees, the first batch, being the hands at saw mill No. 1. Just after this occurred—some ten days or more since—parties no doubt interested in creating a sensation detrimental to the company, started rumors to the effect that all work had been suspended. This rumor, like every rumor that ever went before, grew as it traveled till finally it became the startling story that the contractor was going to abandon the enterprise altogether. There was a very simple reason for discharging the hands at the mill—the mill itself was never intended for anything more than a temporary establishment, to cut such lumber as should be wanted in the immediate neighborhood. This has been sawed and there was, of course, no longer any need to keep the mill running. Hence the discharge of hands. The Commercial of last evening has another statement in relation to stoppage of work, which may be strictly true for aught we know, and yet it is calculated to convey a wrong impression. It says: "We learn that Hoffman and Co. have discharged all their car builders and other mechanics at the ... shops near East Portland, and also all the men at saw mill No. 3. The car builders are talking of returning to the Eastern States, from whence they came last spring with Elliot, as they believe the East-Side prospects are very poor for business. The East-Side contractors have finally discovered that railroad iron and a track were needed before passenger cars." The fact is, the car building at this shop, has been confined almost exclusively to "construction cars." Of these the contractor has enough and therefore has no ... need of car builders. We had heard some time since from pretty reliable authority that, it was the intention to soon suspend this class of work for a few months, on account of having enough of it completed to answer all the present purposes; but that work would be resumed again after awhile. We do not say of personal knowledge or positive information, that this is all there is in the discharge of the car builders and mechanics, but we state it as a ... sible supposition.

REMOVAL.—The banking establishment of Messrs Ladd & Tilton has been removed to their new building, corner of Stark and First street. Workmen were employed yesterday in clearing the debris from the old room which is to be fitted up for a store or some similar business place.

CONVENIENT.—The aprons at the several crossings on Front street are now nearly completed, and add much to the convenience of those who have occasion to travel on the sidewalks; especially do they afford an easy way of access from the street to the walk to our rapidly increasing class of velocipedists.

TO SAIL.—The brig North Star will leave to-day, with a full cargo of produce, for the San Francisco market. The Okanagan will tow her to Astoria. It is also expected that the steamer will also take the bark Zephyr in tow from Rainier. Both vessels will go to sea at once.

HEAD OF NAVIGATION ON THE YAMHILL.—The steamer plying on the Yamhill river, in consequence of low water, is able to ascend only a short distance above Dayton, one of the first landings above the mouth of the river.

RISING.—It is reported that the Columbia river has raised considerable at the Dalles, and that the O. S. N. Company will dispatch a boat for Umatilla this morning. It will be a matter of congratulation to the people of the upper country to again enjoy the advantages of steam navigation.

We find the following in an Olympia paper:

CUSTOM HOUSE, PORT TOWNSEND, W. T.,
March 9, 1869.

Ed. Transcript: You will confer a favor by communicating that Hon. Wright, who the past week visited Olympia, playing the role of inspector of customs, and detective of revenue frauds, is an imposter, who has figured of late under various aliases, such as Fitzgerald, Wilson, etc., in Oregon and elsewhere. He has no authority to act as an officer of customs, and whatever authority he may have hitherto possessed he obtained under false pretenses.

Regretting exceedingly the annoyance to which parties in your place have been subjected by the unwarrantable impudence of this fellow, and the odium thereby inflicted on the revenue service,

I have the h... nor to be,
Your obedient servant,
W. E. BARNARD,
Deputy Collector of Customs.

The subjoined card is from Mr. Stinson, publisher of the Wallamett Farmer:

Mr. Abbott: This gentleman denies the charge made against him last week, to the effect that he was an applicant for the position of editor of the Farmer, and that his opposition to the paper was induced by his failure to get the position; and also uses some of those epithets so peculiar to Abbott. His denial of being an applicant for the editorship of the Farmer is not less false than the assertions made by him a few weeks ago, in the Democrat, that the agent of this paper in Linn county (C. P. Burkhart, Esq.), had become so thoroughly disgusted with the selection of editor, that he intended to resign and have nothing further to do with the agency. No remark was made by Mr Burkhart from which such an inference could be drawn, and the whole thing was a falsehood conceived by this man Abbott. As to the truthfulness of the charge in last week's issue, that Abbott was an aspirant to the editorship of the Farmer, we refer to J. H. Douthit, Esq., of Linn county, to whom the application was made, with the particular injunction to "not let it get out!" Why such injunction we know not, unless it was to avoid any conflict with arrangements for an editorial position, which he had endeavored to make a short time before on one of the Portland dailies; but we do know that it would not have "got out" through us if he had acted the part of anything else than a knave in his notices of this paper.

The Great Yellow River of China.

The Shanghai Recorder, of Jan. 1st, has the following interesting article:

It is only in the plains of Lombardy and Venice, where the Po, the Ticino and the Adige run in artificial channels to the Adriatic sea that we can look for any analogue of the lower course of the Yellow river. There, as in China, large but rapid rivers, bearing a large amount of sediment in their muddy waters entered formerly by uncertain channels into an inland sea. There too, as here, the first care of the rulers, when the country was advancing towards civilization, was to confine the wanderings of these wayward rivers, by means of heavy embankments. Ages have past and the rivers' mouths were advanced farther and farther to seaward, continued additions were required to their banks, till at last, in both countries, the rivers were found flowing in elevated channels; their beds even being often raised a considerable hight over the surface of the surrounding country. Such was the fate of the Yellow river some twenty-five years ago. Its bed, as learned from recent observations by Mr. Elias, was raised no less than twelve feet over the surrounding plain; in this respect being the exact parallel of the rivers of the north of Italy, where many of the cities, and especially the city of Milan, are surrounded by canals flowing at so high a level as to seriously endanger their existence, should any fracture occur. Such, also, was the position of Kaifung-foo, the capital of the rich province of Honan. Although the presence of a river flowing at so high a level over the surrounding country, always containing within itself the seeds of destruction, was in some respects a standing menace, yet still it destributed far and wide the blessings of irrigation without which the level plains would rapidly sink into little better than a desert. The care of those embankments since the time of the Great Yu, to whom Chinese story assigns their origin, has ever been foremost with the Government when properly administered; and the officer under whose charge they were placed took rank with the viceroys of the provinces. Not only were the low lands irrigated with canals led from the great river or its tributaries, but the very fact of the gradual rise of its bed, by enabling higher and higher districts to be cultivated, if it increased the danger in a similar proportion, increased likewise the produce of the land.

Such was the state of the frontier provinces of Honan, Kiangsu, Chihli and Shantung, some 25 years ago. About 18 years ago, when the misgovernment of the reigning dynasty began to be felt throughout the empire, a change took place. Chinese historians, who are apt to mistake cause and effect, tell us that amongst the signs of a falling dynasty, which indicate the withdrawal of the power of heaven, sure to precede its final distruction, are to be reckoned famines and floods; and doubtless the connection between two has in all periods of Chinese history been marked. For the cause, however, we have not far to seek; the revenues which should have been spent on repairs were squandered; the thousands of coolies who subsisted by the repairs of the embankment were thrown out of employment, and soon became troublesome as marauders in the districts their labor had before preserved. The wayward river left to itself, or as some say, actually let out to flood the country in order to get rid of a few thousand banditti, was not long in taking possession of the low plains lying between Honan and Chihli, and in a few years found a new mouth for itself Tsinant foo into the gulf of Pechili at Tsieh men wan. Did the results of the outbreak end there, we should have had to chronicle, besides the most remarkable event of the century in physical geography, little except that a few villages had been swept away, and that places of trade and prosperity had been changed into neglected villages; while others situated near the new channel had sprung up into importance. This, however, was but a small portion of the result. The breaking of the embankments let the river into a low lying plain, where no channel existed to carry off the waters; large lagoons, fit only for the habitation of water fowl, took the place of richly cultivated soil, the inhabitants for thousands of square miles were deprived of their sustenance, and driven as outcasts from their homes. Even here, however, the mischief did not end; the high, level canals, being deprived of their supplies ran dry, and the more elevated districts for want of the necessary water for irrigation, became sandy deserts. Such now is the description we learn from eye witnesses of the lower plains of the Yellow River alternations of desert and morass usurp the place of cultivated plains, once supporting millions of inhabitants.

That so total a change has effected the character of the survivors need excite little wonder, and when we learn that it is from the peasants forced from their homes by famine, on the overflow of the river that the present Nienfei rebellion is mainly recruited, we can understand both its obstinate character and its seeming ubiquitousness. Yet these rebels who are represented by the Chinese as so fierce and dangerous are, we learn, but a sorry lot, scouring the country in search of plunder, and when satisfied at having gained the necessities of life, returning to their fastnesses in the hills. Those who have seen them describe them as nothing more than an unarmed rabble, destitute of leaders or object, for the most part harmless, though sometimes, when goaded to desperation by Imperialist cruelty, dangerous to those who fall in their power. Of Nienfei crimes and Imperial retvenge, stories are told sufficient to make one's blood run cold. Last year we drew attention to the murder in cold blood by Li Hung Chang of his Nienfei prisoners in Shantung. At times lately the spirit of revenge has broken out in even wilder crimes, we hear of one village which buried alive all Imperialist prisoners who fell into their hands, leaving them to die of starvation with their heads exposed above ground. For this terrible retribution was taken, the place was surrounded and men, women and children were slaughtered, till not a soul remained alive. We are sorry to have to add that in this massacre at least one European was engaged.

Such is the present state of the lower plain of the Yellow river, and one of the richest portions of China. In fact the further we extend our researches, and the more authentic information we receive, the stronger is the conviction that the Taising dynasty had drunk its cup of iniquity full, and that no change in the government of China at the present moment could be for the worse."

The Pacific says: "A church may wrap itself in a robe of the finest orthodoxy, and yet be out done in earnest, efficient work. Inferior creeds may be accompanied with better Christian living. Jesus Christ is the one perfect luminous exponent of right beliefs. But his life was more than his words. We need to catch its spirit and power, or our orthodoxy will be put to shame."

A little boy at a Sunday school being asked, "What is the chief end of man?" replied, "The end what's got the head on."

GOOD HOARSENESS AND THE VARIOUS affections to which Public Speakers, Military Officers, and Singers are liable, relieved by "BROWN'S BRONCHIAL TROCHES." Having a direct influence on the affected parts, they allay Pulmonary Irritation. The freedom from all deleterious ingredients makes the Troches a safe remedy for the most delicate. For Coughs they are the best remedy ever offered to the public. Sold by all druggists throughout the country at 25 cents per box.

If men or women could but find the fabled fountain which is said to restore health, and strength and beauty with what eagerness they would rush to drink its waters." It is found in the S. T.—1860.—X. The sale of the PLANTATION BITTERS is without a precedent in the history of the world. They are at once the most speedy, sure, lasting health-restorer ever discovered. It requires but a single trial to understand this.

OFFICE—South west corner Front and Yamhill streets, opposite E. J. Northrup & Co.'s Hardware Store.
I am now making, amongst other numerous styles of ARTIFICIAL TEETH, the improved Vulcanite Plates of Dr. G. W. Cool's Patent, patented Dec. 8d, 1867, the improvement of which consists in lining the entire concave surface with fine gold; it not only makes the plate double as strong but cleanlier than the common Vulcanite Plate. It also can by it be made considerably thinner and lighter, whereas the price is but little above that for common Plates. Call and see specimens.
N. B.—Dentists wishing to secure the office right for Dr G. W. Cool's improved Vulcanite Plates, can have it made out to them by applying to the office.

WALTHAM WATCHES.
The extensive use of these watches for the last fifteen years by Railway Conductors, Engineers and Expressmen, the most exacting of watch wearers, has thoroughly demonstrated the strength steadiness, durability and accuracy of the Waltham Watch. To satisfy that class in all these respects, is to decide the question as to the real value of these time keepers.
The superior organization and great extent of the Company's Works at Waltham, enable them to produce watches, COMBINING THE BEST AND LATEST IMPROVEMENTS, and at a price which renders competition futile, and those who buy any other watch, merely pay from 25 to 50 per cent. more for their watches than is necessary.

HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER
HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.
Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.
It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.
It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

A Great Telegraphic Project.

Among the recent great enterprises which have been projected all over the world to promote the interests of commerce, we notice that of the establishment of more perfect telegrahic communication between England and the Oriental countries. Upon this subject the London Herald says: "Last session Mr. Crawford, M. P., presented a petition to Parliament, signed by all the principal bankers and merchants of London, praying for increased facilities, which, indeed, are imperatively demanded by our vast trade with those regions. It is universally admitted that the present route, by way of the continent of Europe, is altogether unsatisfactory, the messages being too often subjected to long delays in transmission, besides being occasionally very imperfectly rendered. Without dwelling upon the serious drawbacks to which the telegraphic communication with our Eastern Empire would be exposed in case of war, it may be pointed out that the mercantile community consider that they have a right to call upon Government for all the assistance they can render in the matter. Our merchants ought to be able to send a message to their correspondents in India and Australia and receive a reply the same day. This is, beyond doubt, capable of being done with the utmost certainty, provided we use the appliances which science has placed at our disposal. In many quarters it is justly urged that we ought to have an independent submarine cable from the British coast to Gibraltar and Malta, and thence by way of Alexandria to Aden, Ceylon and Australia. It is computed that the cost of this line about ten thousand miles long—would not exceed £3,000,000, and its utility would be so great that a large subsidy would be well bestowed in promoting it. Much interest is evinced to learn what steps will be taken toward carrying out these most important objects in the new session of Parliament."

Iron.

The production of iron in the United States has increased steadily since 1840 at the average rate of eight per cent. per annum. This increase has been more than double the ratio of the increase of population. The production and consumption of iron marks as clearly as anything else the progress of a country in its improvements and general prosperity. The importation and consumption of foreign iron during this whole period has also been large, though the tariff on the article in its various forms has generally been kept at a high rate. By means of cheap labor and by the policy which exempts capital employed in mining from all direct taxation under the law, England has been able to manufacture iron and put it to the United States, enable to pay the freight and compete in the market with the product of our own furnaces. Wages are kept down in that country by the partial abolition of free trade, which admits free of duty the raw material upon which labor is to be expended, free of duty. But this policy, for such a country as England, is actually a protective policy in its most subtle form.

At present there is said to be a great scarcity of good railroad iron in the Eastern markets. Many railway enterprises are delayed for want of a supply. The iron railway fever has been going on for some time throughout the country has used up many miles of rails and the supply has not been kept up to balance the demand. The importation of foreign rails is checked very much by the tariff, and it has been proposed in Congress to withdraw all future grants of land or other Government aid conditional upon the use of iron alone in building the road. This has been talked of in connection with the Canadian railroad scheme, as a means of developing our iron interests and protecting American industry. There is a wide difference of opinion upon the tariff question; but the obvious, practical fact that our furnaces and rolling mills would be stopped at once by the abolishment of the duty is a powerful argument of a kind which it is difficult to answer.

A Hopeless Endeavor.

Andrew Johnson lately said that "the war was a stupendous and deplorable mistake." The Oregon Herald adds that it was "one of the most flagrant of crimes." Johnson thinks that because he has apostatized, that fact changes the whole political and moral aspects of the struggle, the Herald thinks that because the Government defended itself when assailed, and defeated secession, a most flagrant crime was committed. The war was indeed one of the most flagrant of crimes, and the criminality rests upon those who causelessly began it and upon those who encouraged the seceders and rebels in resisting the national authority. The Herald says

The man who during the war preserved his faith unsullied, who by bribes or threats could not be bought or forced to its endorsement, would not to-day exchange the consciousness of manhood which he enjoys for all the empty pomps and emoluments won by joining the popular clamor.

If anything is settled it is that the late rebellion will be forever infamous. No man who was prominently connected with it dares, or ever will dare, to come before the American people for official position, or undertake before them a defense of the secession movement. And those Northern Democrats who "could not be bought or forced to endorse the war,"—that is, those who thought it "a flagrant crime" for the country to defend itself and maintain its authority, will forever share the odium and infamy which attach to the rebels themselves. As for the "proud consciousness" which such enjoy, it is comparable to nothing but a similar pride which, according to Milton's fable, was felt among the lost spirits. Defeat and disaster which will attend the Democracy so long as they attempt to make the rebellion honorable, will sometime teach them that, though reinforced by Andrew Johnson, they cannot reverse the judgment of history or make treason and patriotism change places in the estimation of the American people.

PROGRESSIVE STATE.—The San Francisco Herald remarks that "the adoption of the Constitutional Amendment, conferring the right of suffrage upon females, by the Assembly of Nevada, seems to have taken every one by surprise, as there was no previous agitation of the question to prepare the public mind for so radical a change; and many are disposed to set it down as a joke—the more, since the same body perpetrated a piece of legislative fun about the same time, in passing an act authorizing every man in the State to perform the marriage ceremony. But we are a progressive people, and Nevada a lively State, and it is altogether probable the Amendment will receive the sanction of both branches of the Legislature. If submitted to a vote of the people it would not be at all surprising if it were adopted. Some would vote for it on principle; some from good nature; many because it is more pleasant to say 'yes' than 'no,' especially if it costs nothing; and more still, perhaps, because it would be rare fun to electioneer with the women."

PEACE IN SOUTH CAROLINA.—The Charleston News says that "South Carolina, the 'cradle of the rebellion,' is the most peaceful and secure of all the Southern States. We have a colored population of 400,000 and a white population of 275,000 or less; but order and and quiet reign within our borders, and no such thing as wide-spread riot or tumult has been known in this State. White men and colored men labor soberly side by side, and the business of the whole State is in a healthy and thriving condition."

STATE ITEMS.

An Eastern Oregon paper says the Carter-Packwood ditch will supply more or less water the coming season, but before tapping the main streams it has to be extended some fifteen or twenty miles.

Mr. Thos. Flitcroft, of Umatilla, at present in White Pine, writes to his friends in the former place, giving glowing accounts of the new district, and advising them by all means to pull up stakes and join him.

Everybody in Eastern Oregon is more or less excited about railroad, and anxious to know what direction it will take. The La Grande paper hears of one man having ridden from Oro Dell to Powder River, 30 miles, in order to have an interview with Col. Hudnutt, who is in charge of the survey, and after conversing for some time on railroad matters took the Colonel to one side and said to him, "Now Colonel, I'll tell you what I'll do. If you will bring your survey through Oro Dell I will make you a present of a 60x120 lot at the Mouth. What could the Colonel do but accept the generous offer and bring a built lot (valued at about $30) Title any rate, the survey is being run.

Pacific Coast Brevities.

The small pox in San Francisco is believed to be steadily decreasing and assuming a milder form.

The Nevada Legislature has memorialized California to stop running saw dust down the Truckee, thereby killing off the fish.

The Nevada Legislature adjourned on the night of March 4th. Adkison, Speaker of the House, was presented with a silver tea service.

It is said that the principal object of the new locators in and about Los Angeles, California, is to secure lands for the cultivation of the orange, lemon, lime and mulberry.

The Reno Crescent says that more trains are running now and more material is being rushed through Reno for the front, than at any time since Reno had a "habitation and a name."

The San Francisco Elevator, edited by a colored man, says, "The conqueror said 'If I was not Alexander I would be Diogenes.' If we were not the editor of the Elevator we would be Governor of California."

Hector Benjamin, a former resident of Grass Valley, (Cal.) has had $23,000 bequeathed to him, and himself if living, or if not the proofs of his death is required to enable his family to get the money.

The Sacramento Bee of the 8th inst. says Rain now would be welcome. It would do good. There is moisture enough in all the land for all present purposes, but the recent north winds and the sun have baked the surface so completely that the young grain cannot struggle through it, hence the late sowed begins to suffer.

Steam plows are working successfully in several places in California. The Butte Record gives an account of a plow of this description which was timed while running across the field, and made four hundred feet in three minutes, plowing a strip twelve feet wide. This is forty-eight thousand superficial feet in three minutes, and at the rate of three acres per hour, or thirty-six acres per day of twelve hours.

The Temperance Question.

PORTLAND, March 18th, 1869.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

As a constant patron and reader of your valuable paper, I was truly gratified in the perusal of the article headed "The Temperance Question," as found in the Daily of the 13th inst.

You give us two aspects of the question, and discuss at length, the most important one, as touching the vital interests involved in it. With your permission I will state briefly the present aspect of the question as connected with the present temperance, or more properly "prohibitory" position of all loyal friends of such measures.

It is well known that the first pledge ever made embraced the principle of individual and associate prohibition from the use of alcohol as a beverage. In the progress, experience and experiments made, it was found that alcohol was not only the product of distillation, but that it was also produced by vinous fermentation, and though less destructive to the human system than alcohol by distillation, yet the vinous alcohol was the creator of the appetite in the human stomach, which was not satisfied short of the stronger stimulant; and under this experience the question assumed the total abstinence and prohibitory form. This was thought to be all that would be required, and that but one generation would pass away before this principle of voluntary abstinence and voluntary prohibition would supercede the necessity of legal prohibition.

This principle was adhered to eighteen years in the States, till in 1854, when Maine passed her Prohibitory law. Oregon passed hers in 1844, (ten years before Maine). In the intermediate time the question of license or no license had in some form, been before the people of all the free States and measurably or partially before those of all the slave States.

ITS EFFECT

was to combine the interests of the liquor traffic from Maine to Oregon, to complete what is now appropriately termed the liquor or whiskey ring, and to case-harden, pervert and blind to the legitimate effect of the traffic, nearly or quite all that engaged in it;—to hold over them as a shield to the legitimacy of the trade the license given by legislative provisions. This brings us to you first and most important proposition. "That prohibition is deemed by multitudes to be inconsistent with the just principles of liberty and toleration," you tell us, "and this argument has points which in our judgment, have never been fully answered or refuted."

THE ARGUMENT.

Mr. Noah Webster, L. L. D., page 495, says: "Liberty is, first, freedom from restraint in a general sense, and applicable to the body, or to the will or mind." You will agree with me that Mr. Webster is reasonably good authority. Now, sir, does the traffic in alcohol in any of its points give liberty to any one addicted to its use in any quantity. Any disease in the land that could cause one half the deaths that can be traced directly to the use of alcohol or its poisonous compounds, would cause the enforcement of a general quarantine law all over the land. Mr. Webster says liberty is applicable to the "body, will or mind." You are certainly not ignorant of the fact that the effect of this traffic destroys or kills the body, the will and the mind of the ninety thousand drunkards that are marshaled annually, in our country alone, to the drunkard's grave; and that it enslaves nine hundred thousand more and marches them up in one unbroken rank to the drunkard-maker's licensed bar, to sever themselves and families and friends with infamy and shame. You admit, and we all know, that the vice of intemperance and drunkenness, notwithstanding all the efforts to stop its appalling spread over our land, is on the increase. You also know that thirty years ago it, by actual count, carried to the drunkard's grave thirty thousand victims, annually, and that the increase has been at the rate of thirty thousand in each fifteen years, since. I might ask what are the just principles of liberty and toleration that entitles one man to the privilege of consuming the hard earnings of ten in every community where a liquor saloon or shop is located. I might as well say that because the community owes me to secure and appropriate the labor of one woman (for the law says I may), I have a right to seduce nine more and appropriate their labor and virtue for my support.

The law permits one wife and prohibits me from dealing with the nine. Upon the same principle it gives them at liberty to make a drunkard, and prohibits me. The fact principle of law, justice or humanity me to make a drunkard of my neighbors, or to encourage drunkenness, or in those cases that these enemies to society nor does it be passed and fully failure of any other crime against by any other crime against because it forsooth ibitory question is one. Is it right take the earnings of them what is no injury to them from them the toleration, which Hence, if the is it the same right. If it is tions you do while the law be found to There is no temptation in return, from princi-

GREAT EXCITEMENT.—The constant buzz of activity at KOHLER & FISHEL'S yesterday, was occasioned by the receipt and opening of a very large and complete stock of Clothing and Furnishing Goods—Spring Styles—purchased and sent in, from San Francisco, by Mr. Fichel, who is acknowledged to be one of the best judges of that line of goods, doing business in this city. Call and see the Spring Styles.

Bayard Taylor says: The most temperate people I have ever found are the Greeks, every one of whom man, woman and child drinks wine. Excess, in fact, is a physical disease, and should be treated as such. Where there is any tendency toward it, the only remedy is total abstinence. But the stronger and healthier nature has always seemed to me that which is able to control itself. Let our education, domestic as well as public, develop and strengthen this quality, and we shall accomplish more than by prohibitory laws.

An intelligent member of the Democratic party, a resident of Pike county, Missouri, becoming dissatisfied with the postmaster at Frankford, visited Hannibal recently, and applied to the agent of an express company for his removal. The St. Louis Democrat says the Pike county man was really serious in his conclusion that the express man had power to remove postmasters.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO MARCH 18.

Washington News.

CHICAGO, March 18.—Washington specials say that the House Committee on Foreign Affairs considered the Cuba and San Domingo question, but came to no conclusion. In the meantime the West India squadron is being heavily reinforced. The ostensible object is to protect American citizens in Cuba, but it is well understood to mean something else. Should the revolution gain much further headway, steps will undoubtedly be taken to recognize the independence of the island of Cuba by our government.

Secretary Boutwell has agreed to appoint a negro named Joubert for Assessor at New Orleans.

The House Appropriation Committee have agreed to report back the Chilean appropriation bill as originally presented, and lost in the forty-tenth Congress.

The Committee on Military Affairs had a very interesting interview with General Sherman today. The General spoke of the need of retrenchment. He said that the practice of spending more money than was appropriated, leaving the deficiency to be supplied by special appropriation, must be stopped. He said officers and men must go into the field and live in tents instead of paying rent for quarters in cities, and continuing the expensive commutation system. He said after the consolidation already effected there, will be about 700 supernumerary officers, 200 of whom can be used as post quartermasters, commissaries, etc. There will remain 500 who have no duty until vacancies occur. He thought the pay of supernumerary officers, waiting orders, might with propriety be reduced.

Miscellaneous

NEW YORK, March 18.—Capt. Armstrong, of the emigrant ship James Foster, died of fever at his residence in Brooklyn, last evening.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The Herald's Washington dispatch says army officers at Washington are discontented with the late consolidation order. Most of those who have had occasion to visit Gen. Sherman in order to have their assignments changed, are heartily disgusted with his bluff manners.

BOSTON, March 18.—Mr. Larabee, City Treasurer and Collector of Gardiner, Maine, a man who has been connected with the city government for many years, is found to be a defaulter to the amount of $50,000. His father promises to make good the amount.

South America.

NEW YORK, March 18.—Late letters from Brazil state that Lopez was steadily reorganizing his army from the remnant of the old force and natives who fled before the allies at Cerro Beon. He has issued a proclamation urging the people not to give up nor despair. They believe implicitly all he advises. No natives are seen in the towns occupied by the allies. Ascencion was completely sacked; not even the houses of the foreigners were spared. Mr. Parnahost, the Brazilian Minister of Foreign Affairs has been sent to the allied camp on the Plata, to prepare the way for peace. It is believed he is directed to harmonize the difficulties prevailing among the allies.

McMahon, American Minister, is still with Lopez, and completely hated by the Brazilians.

Financial matters are still unsatisfactory. The Montavido bank has suspended.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—Several arrests for burglary were made last night and this morning.

The report that General George H. Thomas is to succeed General Halleck is confirmed. Gen. Halleck is to command the military division of the South, headquarters at Louisville, Kentucky. The Ninth and Fourteenth regiments of infantry are to go East. They are to be recruited by the Twelfth and Twenty-first regiments.

Last night J. Turner walked into a saloon on Howard street, had a row with a man named Sheridan, and bit one of his ears entirely off.

The body of an unknown man was found floating in the bay at the foot of Second street.

A Mexican was severely stabbed in Dupont alley last night. His wounds are supposed to be mortal.

Edward Gates was arrested last night for the crime of sodomy.

Twenty-eight persons were arrested for drunkenness yesterday.

The victims of the Chrysopolis disaster are all improving finely. Mendelshon will not lose his sight.

At about two o'clock this morning Dennis Buckley walked off the end of Broadway wharf into the bay, and had a narrow escape from being drowned.

The Montana sailed for Panama at noon today with 231 passengers, $682,000 in treasure and a fair freight, including one hundred tons of flour for New York.

There is not the slightest foundation in the rumor that the Honolulu steamer is to withdraw. The company is under a contract with the United States Government to dispatch a steamer monthly to the Hawaiian Islands for a period of ten years.

The mail steamer Colorado arrived from Panama this morning. The mail is unusually small, consisting of a few business letters and less than the usual quantity of newspapers.

Fire and Loss of Life.

EUGENE CITY, March 18.—At four o'clock this morning the residence of Mr. Steventon was discovered to be on fire. The house was wrapt in flames before it was discovered. Three children perished in the flames. Mr. and Mrs. Steventon and one child escaped, badly burned—Mrs. Steventon dangerously so. Nothing saved. Cause not known.

NEVADA.

VIRGINIA, March 18.—Wells, Fargo & Co. shipped last evening 33 bars bullion, weighing 2,366 pounds, and valued at $70,729 45.

The San Francisco mail by pony arrived here at 5 18 this evening. Wells, Fargo & Co. ahead over one hour.

We had a snow last night together with a severe blow throughout the day.

The McAffee Case

The following statements are published by Dr Veatch, the chemist, who has been engaged in making an examination of the remains of the late Mrs. McAffee:

As charges direct and indirect are accumulating against me, I feel bound to make a few statements:

1st. No one has had improper access to my chemicals or laboratory or any matter pertaining thereto.

2d. I have had no connection with any one in making this analysis. No one has aided me but Mr. Lemuel Foley, an efficient and intelligent Chemical Student, who has performed certain labors for me, in the laboratory.

The person whom you [the Unionist] designate as the Rev. Charley Hall, and who, I suppose, is the same individual who came out this morning in a Card, over the signature Charles H. Hall M. D., has never been consulted, directly or indirectly in this matter.

Hall states that he was by "request of Dr. Veatch to test the product of his eliminations when procured."

This statement is wholly untrue. Hall was to be permitted along with other Medical Students to witness the reactions which I proposed to them for their benefit after the whole matter was completed, and my testimony rendered concerning same.

Hall further states that "the final test has not been commenced."

I state the final test was completed and my testimony rendered on that day of inquest.
